

I wish to comment on the attempt of the Consumer Bankers Association's effort to weaken or modify Indiana's Do Not Call legislation. I am totally opposed to any change in this law. I would like to see it made more restrictive.

From my personal experience, this law has reduced the number of these irritating and disruptive telephone calls from several a day, to less than one a week. It is a very welcome relief not to have your dinner, naps, or even TV watching interrupted by some irritating solicitor. My springtime lawn care calls have gone from several a week to NONE, thanks to the No Call List. Millions of Hoosiers view this legislation as one of the most popular and effective ever passed. I do not believe the Federal Communications Commission should do a gross disservice to the citizens of Indiana by weakening this law.

Respectfully yours,
